ROASTED TO DEATH. THE TERRIBLE END OF A NEGRO RAVISHER

ant Captured and Led Back to the Scene,
Where He is Burned to Death—
The Second Case of Its Kind.

Months, Ala., December 28,-[Special.]-Friday week, at Gainestown, Clarke county. Alabama, a young lady, Miss Carrie Boyer, aged seventeen, was waylaid while on her way home from a neighbor's. She was found dving with a bullet hole in the back of her neck, and with her skull crushed in. A broken gun stock, with blood upon it, was found lying in the road. The gun stock was recognized as be longing to Alexander Reid, a negro living near at hand. Reid fled when the avengers called for him. The barrel of the broken gun was found in Reid's house. It had blood and hair npon it. The people of Clarke and adjoining counties, both white and blacks, organized a hunt for the murderer. Two negroes captured him Thursday at the county line. The march to Gainestown was participated in by hundreds of men. At several paces along the route the inhabitants turned out and demanded a lynching habitants turned out and demanded a lynching. But the guard passed on in silence until the spot was reached where the crime was com mitted. At two o'clock yesterday Reid was chained to a tree. He confessed that he had done the deed, but that his gun went off accidently and then he was forced by circum stances to complete the murder. The mer then built a pen of lightwood around the crim inal. The negro shouted for mercy, but the flames was quickly applied. After burning awhile the embers were scattered and a new pen built up, the negro meanwhile suffering intense agony The process was repeated three times before death came to his relief. This is the second incident of the kind in the same place, About seven years ago a negro preacher, who mur dered an old lady and a little boy and out Sensations.

Austin, Tex., December 28.—The Coroner's jury; in the case of Mrs. Eula Phillips, who on Wednesday night last was found dead in a yard attached to her residence, and who was thought to have been assaulted before being killed, today rendered a verdict to the effect that death had retulted from wounds inflicted with an ax in the hands of parties unknown. Hancock, who had also murderously attacked with an ax by unknown persons on the same evening is in a dying condition tonight. Mrs. Eanes, who was arrested in San Antonio yesrerday, charged with the murder of her seven yerr

Partner.
FORT SMITH, Ark., December 28.-Another bloody affray occurred in the Cherokee Nation yesterday, in which George Hiles was brutally murdered by Dave Mize and Joe Hunter. The ase of the killing was Hiles's attention to Mize's wife. Mize and wife had parted or Christmas eve. Hiles escorted Mrs. Mize to a party. This enraged Mize, who swore vengeance on Hiles. Yesterday Mize and Hunter, his brother-in-law, went to the residence of Hiles' father, and called their victim out for the ostensible purpose of talking with him. Taking young Hiles away in the woods a few steps, Mize, who had a double barrelled shot gun, turned suddenly upon him and emptied its contents into his breast, after which, assisted by Hunter, he riddled the dying boy's body with bullets, and left it weltering in blood. Both murder-ers escaped, but the deputy marshals are in

GUARDING THE PRESIDENT'S LIFE Pinkerton Detectives Sent to Washington on Special Duty.

PITTSBURG, December 28.—The Penny Press PITTSBURG, December 28.—The Penny Press, an afternoon paper, today published a story to the effect that five Pinkerton detectives passed through here last night from Chicago on their way to Washington, for the purpose of looking after the personal safety of President Cleveland. One of the party, named McGuire, stated that they had been ordered to Washington by way of Philadelphia, where they would be joined by five men from the branch agency there, then to proceed to Washington for special duty at the white house. On their arrival at the capital they were to receive full instructions as to their duties.

"What do you suppose is the reason for this precaution," asked the reporter.

"We were talking the matter over on our way here, and concluded that a plot of some kind had been discovered, but whether against the president's life, I am not prepared to state. We expect to remain in Washington some time. General Sheridan's orderly has visited Pinkerton's headquarters during the past few days, several times."

NO TRUTH IN IT.

THE TERROR WHICH PREVAILS THROUGHOUT ARIZONA.

Outside World-The People Organizing Their...
Own Banger Forces-The Latest
News of the Indian Troubles. EL Paso, Texas, December 28.-W. K

Jones, one of the best known ranchmen in Arizona, arrived here Sunday from the vicinity of the recent Indian massacre. Jones says the situation in western New Mexico and eastern Arizona is really much worse than has been reported by the newspapers. He declares that no one person can gather an adequate idea of the terrorized condition of the inhabitants and the actual number of people killed by the Apaches within the past two months. Dozens of families have been massacred in distant parts of the territory, and the news of their death never spread beyond the immedi ate vicinity, owing to the tong distance and separation from the outside world. Jones men-tions three murders in New Mexico which, to tions three murders in New Mexico which, to his knowledge, have never been published, and says just prior to his departure from New Mexico he helped to bury a neighbor who was found murdered by Indians. The fearful loss by fire and plunder at the hands of the marauding Apaches has also been under estimated, as many ranches have been literally cleaned up of stock and the houses burned. The ranchmen of Graham county, Arizone have equipped a ranger force at their Arizona, have equipped a ranger force at their own expense and blaced them in the field. The settlers are depending entirely on these rangers. Jones asserts that the regular army rangers. Jones asserts that the regular army is no longer relied upon by the people to suppress these frequent outbreaks, and says that Governor Zulick, of Arizona, is in favor of immediately organizing a territorial ranger force, and has been petitioned to call the legislature together for this purpose.

They are being dispatched to protect the Indians on the Sar Carlos reservation from a threatened attack by the whites. Major Gordon will command the cavalry. The date of their departure will not be fixed until dispatches shall have been received from General Crook, indicating the point in Arizona in which the troops shall point in Arizona in which the troops shall take up their position.

PREPARING A RAID.

Lively Times Expected on the Border of Mexico. Mexico.

St. Louis, December 28.—The following rather exciting information is furnished by the Brownsville, Texas, correspondent of the Globe Democrat: "Under to-day's date advices from Rome, Texas, state that force variously estimated at from 100 to 150 men, are congregated at Juan Malderado's ranch, four miles from Rome, arming and preparing for a raid on Mier, Mexico, which is about seven miles distant from the ranch. They are partisans of one of the deranch. They are partisans of one of the defeated candidates for mayor in the recent election at Mier, and on raising a riot were driven out by the federal troops. The rioters retreated across the Rio Grande and fired on the troops from the American bank. It is not known if the United States authorities have taken any steps to break up this Mibe stering expedition." A correspondent writing from Nuevo Laredo, Mex., says: General Gomez, commander in chief of this division of the Mexican army, arrived here last night, and this morning issued an order commanding the Fourth battalion of cavalry to start at once for Mier. Although the reason for this movement is not understood, it is thought that the troops have been ordered there to preserve peace at the time of the inauguration of the newly elected officials January Ist. A sufficient number of troops have been retained to perform similar duty here, although there is no probability of any trouble, though there is no probability of any trouble, thoug

Coke Victims.
WILKESEARRE, Pa., Décember 28.—The general impression prevailed heresbouts that when the Susquehanna coal company gave up the idea of sinking a shaft over No. 2 slope, at Nanticoke, no further attempt would be made to look for the bodies of the twenty-six victims of the recent disaster. The officials, however, have not given up the hope of finding them, and will continue the work of opening up the main gangway.

Three extra shafts were put on again yesterday, each working eight hours, and they expeet to reach the fatal spot in five weeks. The debis is being removed at the rate of one hundred cars per day. Of course nobody knows where the bodies are, or when they will be found, if ever, and there is no telling how many lives may yet be lost in the gangway when the men reach it and commence th way when the men reach it and commence the work of timbering through the sand and culm. A public meeting of citizens was held at Nanticoke this evening to devise means for raising a fund for the relief of the families and others dependent on those who lost their lives in No. I stope of the Susquehanna coal company. Two prominet men from each of eight wards are appointed a committee to solicit money for the sufferers.

Riotous Strikers in Court. TAUNTON, Mass., December 28.—The second act in the North Dighton assault affair was played this morning in the district court, when played this morning in the district court, when James McCann, Henry Pannell and Charles Van Velkenburg, all three "scabs," were arraigned for disturbing the peace. They pleaded not guilty, and furnished security for their appearance on the fifth of January for trial. Among the strikers, George Happles, John Ryan, Jeremiah Murry, Robert Widden, Thomas Thorney, Lawrence Hennessey and George Reed have been arrested and are under George Read have been arrested and are under bail to appear January fifth. VIOLENT SCENES IN THE FRENCH ASSEMBLY.

Pichting Mambers Payted by Their Friends-I Result of Recent Elections-The Irisk Ques-tion in English Politics-News From the Continent-Other Foreign Rems.

Paris, December 28 .- Francois Jules P. Grevy was re-elected president of the French republic today in a joint vote of the senate and the chamber of deputies acting as a national assembly. The balloting was carried on amid great excitement. Only five members of the right cast ballots. Grevy's total majority in oint ballot was 135.

The space reserved for visitors in the chamber m which the election took place, was crowded long before the hour appointed for the election. The streets in the vicinity were also thronged. The proceedings began at 1:15 amid considerable excitement. The president of the national assembly was unable to restore stience. The members of the right became so turbulent that the president threatened to suspend the sitting. The members of the right then asked for time to speak before the yote was taken, and their request being refused, several of them tried to gain the tribune. A fight consued Detween a member of the left and one of the right. Several blows were exchanged before the combatants could be seperated by their friends. A lull in the demonstrate of the combatants are several blows. then followed, and balloting took

During progress of the voting for presiden of the republic, Cuneo De Ormano shouted that the national assembly as at present conthat the national assembly as at present constituted was a body of usnrpers.

Paul De Cassaqnac cried out that the congress was illegal, and the presidential election a farce, as four departments of France were not represented at the meeting.

Clemenceau's recent speech during the debate on the Tonquin credit, in the course of which he took occasion to charge Ferry with having sought the aid of Bismarck in the settlement of the Franco-Chinese difficulty, has caused no little excitement, and indignation throughout Germany. The German newspapers are furious at Clemenceau, and denounce his action in unmeasured terms.

At the first election Sunday, December 15, the six radical candidates polled from 15,000 to 120,000 votes each. The opportunists came next, then the conservative, and the moderate republicans brought up the rear. As no candidate secured the absolute majority resolved, another election. absolute majority required, another election was ordered for yesterday. Since the 13th a fusion of the opportunists and the moderate republicans has taken place, and it was expected that they combined would muster 150,000 votes yesterday. There was $1,000 votes cast at the election on the 15th, and then it was estimated that 100,000 electors staid away from the polls.

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND. The English Liberals Apparently Opposed to

LONDON, December 28 .- The Evening Mail, of Dublin, says that Captain O'Shea, liberal M. P. for Liverpoot, is arranging on entente, by which Parnell will support Gladstone in his effort to gain control of the government, and in return for this service Gladstone will introduce, on his accession to power, a measure for home rule in Ireland. The only point in the arrangement on which there is any disagreement, is in relation to the control of police in Ireland.

The Irish Times published a dispatch from London today, stating that the police have been ordered to resume the precautionary measure adopted during the dynamite scare er the liberal government, owing to the excitement among the nationalists arising out of the alleged home rule manifesto of Glad-P. Sheehon, M. P. elect for East Kerry, has advised the tenantry of Killarny not to pay rents to landlords, because an Irish parliament will allot the land to them free, and will not pensate the landlords. ompensate the landfords.

It is said this evening that on the assembling f parliament John Bright, member-elect for Sirmingham central division, will resign, be-ause he is opposed to the advanced views of the radicals.

The loyal patriotic union will hold a meeting in Dublin on the 8th of January, and another meeting in London at a later date, for the purpose of forming a league, which shall be similar in the details of its organization to the Irish national league and have branches throughout the kingdom.

A circular was recently sent to all the liberal members of the new parlianuest, which

them to state their opinions on the Irish home rule questions. In their replies most of the mbers avoid explicit statements, but a mamembers avoid expirit statements, but a majority of those who express a definite opinion are opposed to giving to an Irish parliament the control of the tariff, and of the police, and are in favor of confining the legislative powers of such parliament to matters of local government, the same as in Great Britain. A number of members insist that the surety of the empire must overton all efforts to conrumper of members insist that the surery the empire must overtop all efforts to con-liate the trust tenantry. On the whole the re-ies show that it is hopeless to expect from the liberals any concession acceptable to the armelites. Gladstone and his colleagues in ne late cabinet continue to exchange views on the Irish question. They take no pains to con-al the fact of the existence of grave difficulceal the fact of the existence of grave dimensions in the way of an agreement. The Pall Mall Gazette, reviewing the situation, predicts that the Salisbury government will be given an extension of power, and says it is possible that the government may make an attempt to suppress Ireland with a high handed coercion. The report that Captain O'Shea has been arranging an understanding between the Parnellites and Gladstone is ing between the Parnellites, and Gladstone is ridiculed as a mere party rumor. The story was set afloat a week ago. Captain O'Shea is no longer a member of parliament. The cabinet will meet on Thursday to settle the programme for the coming session.

The president of the Birmingham Liberal association denies that Bright intends to resign his seat in parliament. The French Defeated in Madagascar LONDON, December 28.—The Daily News publishes a letter from Antananaruo, the capital of Madagascar, giving an account of a French attack upon the Hovas on September 10, outside of Tamatave. It says that after seven hours of desperate fighting the French were compelled to retire, with a loss of sixty men. Not a single Frenchman succeeded in mounting the earthwork of the Hovas. The letter further says that the Hoovas gained another victory over the French and their Lakalava allies in the north. The French commander was killed and the army fled in confusion, leaving forty dead upon the field. The Hovas army returned to Tamatave, where there was great public re-joicing over the defeat of the French. A han-quet was given in honor of the victorious

Restored to the Czar's Favor. London, December 29. — [Special.] —The czar is about to reinstate Prince Alexander, of Bulgaria, in his former rank in the Russian army. The presence of General Voicikoff and ther Russian efficers at Sofia marks a close alliance between Russia and Bulgaria. These acts have caused some alarm among the friends of Turkey. It is believed that a compact be-tween the czar and Prince Alexander, by which Russia recognizes the Bulgarian union, is a prelude to a Russian campaign in the spring, and the final dismemberment of the Turkish empire.

stitute, which is now in charge of S. G. Brinkley, of Georgia.

After the usual exercises, Mr. Brinkley illustrated the new method of teaching, which at once caught the attention of the audience.
Briefly stated, it is simply a method of teaching the young mind to think for itself instead of learning the crystalized thought of another, a departure from the "jug system," which is to pour in until the jug is full. Mr. Brinkley showed himself master of the situation, an original thinker and a born teacher. He has visited the leading public schools of the east, and is certainly up with the times. Some of our visitors from the north were astonished, as our visitors from the north were astonished, as they said, at the exhibition. The people here are enthusiastic in their praise of the Georgian. The Bogus Jubilee Singers.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., December 28.—E. M. Cravath, president of Fisk university, Nashville, Tenn., telegraphs to a morning paper here that the alleged Fisk Jubilee Singers who appeared in this city last week under the management of H. Cushing, have no connection with his institution, and the use of the title with his institution, and the use of the title "Fisk" by them is unauthorized. The refusal of the hotels to entertain them was extensively advertised. An interview with Cushing in this city was telegraphed to the New York papers, and considerable sympathy has been aroused. The insults which Cushing said the singers had received were shown not to have been infitted on the commany he now manager. been inflicted on the company he now manages, but on the genuine Fisk jubilee singers during their travels a few years after the war when prejudice was marked.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., December 28.—The gale which began Friday and continued into Sunday was much more severe than the Thanksgiving storm. More damage was done to property here than by any storm since Minot's light gale. Robbin's wharf at North End was entirely carried away, and the lumber yand suffered severely. The long wharf was much injured, as were also the other wharves. At Wood's lumber yard, much lumber was blown and washed away. Altogether the damage to streets, wharves, etc., will probably reach $3,000. Damaged by the Storm.

Escape From Heavier Punishment. Lancaster, Pa., December 28.—Edward P. MACON, December 28 .- [Special.]-There were but few cases before th morning. Morris Slocum failed to show why he should not pay $10 for contempt. Godfrey Jenkins, who was arrested at the same time Slocum, was released. Slocum was then fined $5 more for disorderly conduct. The trial of the case brought out some startling develop-ments. It appeared that Slocum and Godfrey's mother had been living together for three years. "Are you married?" "Yes, sah," answered the woman, "married 'bout er mon ergo." "Well, Slocum says you're not married. How about it?" "Well, sah, I tell you d trufe. 'Bout thirty yer ergo I had er man in Barnesville, and I had eight chill'n. Dis gal de ol'es'. The Perryman Case.

MACON, December 28.—[Special.]—There are ten or a dozen parties under arrest, and are being field for the commitment trial in the Perryman fire of Saturday night. It will be called in the city court tomorrow. Perryman hired a big black negro to carry a heavy box to his house Saturday night, and had Harvey Holt to carry some smaller packages, among them a satchel of billiard cues and beer checks. On opening the box the police found a quantity of cigars in boxes, and other barroom goods, and the box was securely nailed. Perryman says he lost $180 in cash which he left in a cigar box under the counter, and he left a lamp burning intending to return and get the a cigar box under the counter, and he left a lamp burning intending to return and get the money. This story is palpably contradicted by the fact that he went, as he says, to a friend's house near Wesleyan university, and remained there until the report of the fire alarmed him at 4 o'clock in the morning. Lieutenant Wood had been appointed to raid the den Saturday night, and Perryman was informed of the fact. He had $600 insurance on his stock, so it looks very much like the burning was done to prevent the gambling raid, and at the same time secure the insurance. The circumstances of the killing that occurred there before the fire gave a good opportunity to mileasd public opinion. a good opportunity to milease public opinion. The authorities are working hard to unravel the affair, and it looks bad for Perryman.

The Saturday Night's Killing.

The Saturday Night's Killing.

MACON, December 29.—[Special.]—After the inquest was over yesterday Nelson Benton was held on the charge of pointing a pistol at another, which is a misdemeanor in the eyes of the law, and Jim Bailey, in whose hands the weapon was discharged, was held for carrying concealed weapons. If Perryman comes clear of the graver crime of arson, he will probably be prosecuted for selling liquor to minors and for allowing minors to play billiards and pool and for keeping a gambling den. The majority of the boys present when Ippie Goodwin was killed were gaword with razors, pistols and did the property with razors, pistols and did the property with razors, pistols and did the property with razors.

A White Kidnapper.

Macon, December 28.—[Special.]—Near the park, on Walnut street, yesterday afternoon, a white man of middle age grabbed up a negro girl five years old; and made off with her. The mother saw the act, and with several other women, raised a hue and cry and started in pursuit of the man, whom they supposed to be a medical student in search of a subject for riviced to the part was a subject for riviced to the search of the search of the supposed to the search of the until they overtook him and rescued the pica-ninny. Beaten While Drunk

MACON, December 28.—[Special.]—Morris Finn got drunk Thursday night and left the place where he works in East Macon at a late hour. He got too drunk to navigate when he reached Cross Keys, two miles from Macon of the Jeffersonville road, and lay down to rest.

Along came Thomas Carroll, with a thirst for gore, and he lit on to Morris and gave him a most unmerciful drubbing and gouging. To-day Morris saw Mr. Carroll on the streets and had him arrested by the police. He has not been confined, and the supposition is that the charge is unsupported by the evidence.

AN INTERESTING TALK WITH

e Criticises Recent Legal Proceedings in Atlan and Shows Where the Law is Defective—His Belief that the Next Legislature will Res-tore the Wholesale Trade, etc.

ALBANY, Ga., December 28 .- [Special.]-Your correspondent finding Judge Vason in his office this morning perusing Judge Clark's opinion on the anti-prohibition injunction bill, oublished in yesterday's Constitution, took occasion to ask him his opinion of the present legal status of the case, to which query the judge, who has been a close reader of all the proceedings had in this interesting contest now going on in Atlanta, and is besides an ardent prohibitionist, replied in substance as follows:

"In my opinion the legislature went too far in their endeavor to stop all traffic in liquors. As initial legislation on the subject, the bill should have been leveled only at the retailers. Their suppression, and with it nine-tenths of the evils growing out of the liquor traffic would have been a task of easy rathe would have been a complishment. As it is, by classifying the wholesale dealers with the retailers, and applications to a complisher the same prohibitory restrictions to plying the same prohibitory restrictions to both, the prohibitionists have arrayed too formidable and powerful a combination against them to be quietly and easily suppressed. The act of the last legislature in question, unites, in effect, two large classes against prohibition who, in fact, had very little in common before at least in Georgia—since very few of the first-class barkeepers in the cities ever bought their stocks but at first hand from the northern and western distillers. There is not a decem-barkeeper in Albany who will admit that his stock of liquors comes to him after being handled by a Georgia house, and in proof of his assertion, is ready to show his bill of sale at any moment. In view of this fact, and of the developments that will be heared. and of the developments that will be out by the litigation now pending in Atlanta, my prediction is, that the next legislature will restow the traffic in ardent spirits by the wholesale. A great mistake made by the whisky men in Atlanta was in appealing to the United States court to enjoin the ordinary of Fulton from declaring the result of the election. This was an effort on their part to stiff tion. This was an effort on their part to stifle the voice of the people through the ballot box. They should have delayed action until a case was made under the law that would have hurt somebody—a case of wrong and injury. Courts of equity, both state and federal, cannot deal with abstractions, but only in live cases. Since Judge Clark's decision holds that he has no invided in the orbits water and did no jurisdiction of the subject matters, and d not therefore decide on any constitution point, no writ of error would lie from our

RELIGION IN DEKALB. Rev. J. B. Johnstone Preaches Again

Clarkston, CLARKSTON, Ga., December 28.—[Special.]-Rev. J. B. Johnstone, who was in charge of December 28.

catur and Clarkston two years ago, has been sent back by the conference. He preached his first sermon at this place yesterday morning to a large and intensely interested congregation, from the text: "This is a faithful aying, and worthy of all acceptation that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." I Timthy, 1:15. He said that Jesus Christ was called in the scripture the desire of all nations, but He was more than that, He was the necessity of the universe—the expectation of creation. Nature needed Him to perfect and man needed Him to redeem. He then represented all reture searching for Christ, and said that all reture scarching for Christ, and said that all along the track of centuries the nations were looking for Him. And He came. And He came at a time when the world was greatly and singularly in want. Heathenism had failed to satisfy it. The world had outgrown its infancy, and had laid aside its dolls, tossed them away. The philosophers derided, even the poets could hardly play with the old heathen deities. Society was corrupt to its core. The deities. Society was corrupt to its core. The old monarchies had sunk one by one—Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, Persia, Macedonia, oppressed by their own vices. Rome had reached the height of power, but it was power to be vile and so to be miserable. And was a groan uttered from universal humanity, for something to save it from the utter exhaustion of sensuality hard by suffering, of moral, social and political degradation. Judea itself, where the sound and the token of worship yet lingered, was no and the token of worship yet lingered, was no exception to the general rule, though as yet it had hardly fallen to the depth of imperial Rome. And philosophy could never have had a better trial. The greatest moral philosophers the world had ever known, or has ever known, had taught at Athens. The sound of their voices had reached Rome and echoed throughout the civilized world. Their teaching was valued and was valuable to the thinking few; but it was circumscribed, confined to that few. The salt of society had never been discovered, and salt of society had never been discovered, and salt of society had never been discovered, and it stank and was corrupt throughout. Then it was that Jesus Christ set forth a remedy, and it was Himself. It cannot be too emphatically said or too steadily born in mind, that Christianity is Christ. So He taught, so His deciples after Him—not a law, not a theory, not a code of morals, not esystem of casuistry, not even an elaborate theology; but "they ceased not to teach and to preach Jesus Christ." And this did satisfy human wants. This did fur-nish a complete and adequate plan for prepara-tion in this life for the life to come. Complete, inasmuch as it meets all the fair requirements of our moral and rational nature, and adequate with reference to its purpose—to furnish us a plan of salvation.

That must be a unique truth concerning which it can be asserted without qualification that it is "a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation." It cannot be classed with common place truths. It must be large in itself and wide in its range of influence. The commendation with which the text is introduced makes it obligatory on us to give it a hearing. What are the teachings that come heralded in this unusual and imposing first find him, in whatever condition, sur rounded by whatever circumstances, is a sin ner. This is a faithful saying, and worthy o all acceptation—of universal application—that Christ Jesus came into the world to save

II. The second truth taught is that Christ has made ample provision for sinners. He tasted death for every man. It is possible for every one to be saved. There is not a person in the world into whose face we may look and say "You are a sinner without a remedy."

III. This remedy is infinite. Jesus Christ came to save sinners. Christianity is Christ. Not your baptism, not your confirmation, not your church membership, but Christ Jesus IV. It is a present salvation.

v. It must be received through faith. It cannot come otherwise. Faith is the instru ment by which it is made ours. God cannot give it to us unless we exercise faith in Christ. Mr. Johnstone made this point very strong and clear, and used some beautiful and telling il ustrations to enforce it.

It is a marvel that these people have built a church at all in this place, when we think of the beginning and the difficulties through which they have come, but it is more surprising still the see what a post-to-control ing still to see what a neat, comfortable house of worship they have erected and kept clear of debt. Their building would be an ornament to a much larger town.

Fort Gaines Rejoices. FORT GAINES, Ga., December 28 .-On Thursday night the Methodist Sunday school gave their annual Christmas entertain-ment at Coleman's hall. It was decidedly an njoyable affair, and was voted a complete suc cess by a large and enthusiastic audience. The services consisted of responsive reading, appro-priate songs and recitations. At close of these exercises fruits and confectioneries were distributed among the entire audience, and the remainder of the evening was devoted to social enjoyment, and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the evening.

A Chase for a Thief. From the Barnesville, Ga., Democrut. Last Monday night an Upson county farmer decided to sleep in his gin house. During the night quite a dramatic scene occurred in the dark. A colored customer had previously brought cotton to this farmer's gin, and his bale weighed about 100 pounds more than the seed cotton weighed in would indicate; while another pile diminished. So arming himself and taking along two other parties the farmer slept in the gin house. During the night the light of the moon through the opening door suddenly flashed in the farmer's face, and he awoke. Grasping his pistol he rose, when he heard one party jump off the platform outside. A noise was heard in the cotton, on the side of the house, and on the joists overhead as if rats were playing.

The farmer and his co-watchers instituted a search over the ginhouse in the dark. With pistols in hand they called out to the supposed thief to come out and give up, that they had him, etc., etc. Failing to find him, or to hear him, however, the searching party finally concluded it was nothing but rats and returned to rest. After quiet was restored and some time had elapsed, the farmer was suddenly aroused by something falling on the floor as if some were playing. had elapsed, the farmer was suddenly aroused by something falling on the floor as if some one jumped from the joist to the floor. Rapid footsteps were heard running toward the door which was quickly opened and as quickly closed again. Just as the door closed the farmer fired, the ball passing through the planks of the door but hurting no one so far as heard from. The wiery thief tripped away through the night and the woods joyous and happy.

THROUGH THE BUILDING.

Leaving the cosy boudoir, a walk was taken through the building and around the premises. The doctor kept up a lively conversation all the while and led the way. He pushed back the folding doors of a ward and entered. The ward has the appearance of a fashionable hotel. Each room contains a bed, washstand, ward-robe and bureau. It is kept as neat as a pin at all times, and the patients take pride in keeping it so. Nearly all the rooms had flowers in them, and at the end of the hall are conservatories in which fountains are playing. The wards are carpeted, and beautiful pictures adorn the walls. The dining rooms to each ward are kept clean and attractive. to each ward are kept clean and attractive. There was no boisterons talking or laughing. The patients were quifet and were engaged in reading and talking, while some were quiet. The wards and the entire building is heated by steam, and the air is comfortable and warm at all times. The patients are under the thorough control of the attendants of the wards.

SOME EARLY HISTORY. "You say you would like to print something that has never been said of the institutioe before," said the doctor, "Well I will tell you a good many things."

"In 1852 a bill was passed the legislature appropriating $1,00,000 for the erection of the propriating $1,00,000 for the erection of the hospital. It was done at the instance of the idea, of the medical society of Selma and conceived by them, which idea was carried before the state association and by it measures were taken to appoint Df. Dopez, a distinguished physician of Mobile, an agent, and he was sent to Montgemery by the state medical board to lobby. In the meantime the friends of the scheme invited Miss D. L. Dix, of Boston, to become interested. The $1,00,000 appropriascheme invited Miss D. I. Dix, of Boston, to become interested. The $1,00,000 appropriation was barely enough to lay a good foundation for the building. The next bill was vetoed by Governor Winston. He said "the building was too large; it would never be built or filled." The bill was passed over his head. The size of the present building is 500 feet long, and has a capacity for 300 apartments, besides the

was Daniel Mason, who was admitted April 5th, 1861. He was a solder of Fort Morgan and was forty-eight years of age. His residence was Jackson county, Alabama. He had been insane ten days, which was due to political excitement. He was admitted to the hospital on the order of General Duff. C. Green, with the statement that the government would bear the expense. He was discharged cured July 10th, 1861. The second inmate was a German named Joseph Hebling; from Mobile. He was employed by Dr. Bryce, and the first night he lived at the hospital he became insane. The fifth patient was George W. Thompson, of Tuscaloosa, who is still an inmate and an excelent laborer. He entered May 8th, 1861, and is no better or worse than when he entered. The first woman who came to the hospital for treatment was Mrs. Parthena E. Mimms, of Conecuh county, Alabama. She was admitted in the county of the contraction of the county of the count a my conveniences and additions. Conecnh county: Alabama. She was admitted August 19th, 1861, and was afterwards dis-charged, readmitted, discharged a second time, and is now a candidate for readmittance.

ONLY ONE SUICIDE. There has never been but one suicide in the institution which stands unparaleled. This want was an old-man who was allowed to Succept alone in a bed, and he hung himself. The death was caused by negligence of the nurse. There are 715 immates at the bospital, equally divided between men and women.

We have saved enough from the turrent expenses to build two small buildings in which have been placed 90 negroes. One of the interesting sights at the hospital is the kitchen and storeroom. This is presided over by Mrs. E. L. Kilgore, who is a remarkable weman. She feeds at each meal seven RUNDRED AND EIGHTY-RIGHT mouths including of mloves and patients. She mouths, including employes and patients. She was asked how much she gave out to each.

"I weigh out exactly ninety-one-hundredths of a pound of beef for each. Of bread they consume ten barrels of flour every week, 220 pounds of meal and grits daily: butter, twenty-five pounds daily; molasses, seven barrels a month; coffee, two and a half sacks a month, and affecen pounds of ground coffee daily. THE GAS SUPPLY is made on the premises, and is furnished to the state university, the distance of a mile, at $1.25 per thousand feet. Eight charges à day, of 200 pounds per ton, is made. The coal yield is 320-100 feet of gas to a pound of coal. The hospital is erected over one of the best coal fields in the state, and a thorough system of coal mining is carried on. Dr. Bryce pointed to the 'hospital buildings in the distance and said: "I have a system of waterworks that is far more effectual than the ones you have in Atlanta. I could flood that immense building in ten minutes."

The waterworks are the Holly system and would resist the strongest fires. The main reservoir has a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons of water. A new pump has recently been placed in that will supply 1000 gallons of water a minute. The water is conveyed in a six inch iron pipe from the reservoir to the building a distribution of the supplementary of the ice of 300 yards. The fireplugs are placed 100 feet apart and each have an appature for two hose pipes which will supply 200 gallons a

THE ROOT CELLAR. After leaving the water works a short distance the doctor pointed to a long building on an elevated spot. "That," said he, "is a root cellar and contains 4,000 bushels of sweet potatoes and nearly as many turnips. The cellar is 200 feet long. The yield of turnips was so large this season, they were thrown broadcast over the ground." The doctor was asked how he amused himself when not at work.

"I am very fond of hunting and have some fine dogs; let me show them to you."

He led the way to an old office and opened the door, instantly three magnificent animals of the Lewellyn strain dashed out and received his caresses. The animals are among the finest in the south, and are noted in the kennels of America. "Besides these dogs, I have my

They are enormous, and the sows are so fat their bags drag the ground. Next was the beef stalls where the animals are fattened before they are killed. All the meat that is eaten is killed on the premises. Next was the dairy, with its the premises. Next was the dairy, with its Jersey cows, yielding from one to three pounds of butter daily. The sight was a grand one, and was under the care of attendants whose work was systematic in every detail. After rambling about among the sights dinner was suggested. Mrs. Bryce was waiting with a welcome. She said, "Come, now, I am going to take you in charge and show you some of my work, but first let us have dinner."

After dinner Mrs. Bryce said: "Doctor let's After dinner Mrs. Bryce said: "Doctor, let's tell Mr. Wynton of the time you were elected. It has never been in the newspapers, and it

The Constitution and Its Folks.

The coming together of THE CONSTITU-TION's family, makes one of the largest conventions that has assembled in Atlanta. Over three hundred visitors will come to the city, and meet here over one hundred local workers, making considerably over four hundred persons who will be present at the banquet tonight.

Every one of these-without an exception -are in some way connected with the making of THE CONSTITUTION. There are proprietors, editors, reporters, correspondents, clerks, pressmen, printers, stereotypers, telegraph operators, stenographers, proof-readers, mailing clerks, engineers, collectors, advertising agents, traveling men, elevator boys, job printers, electrotypers, and various other workers that make up a small army of themselves, and will fill the immense dining room of the Kimball house to overflowing.

Behind these men who make the paper, is an army of over 3,000 agents, who help to circulate it, and who, we wish very much, could be with us today. There are the paper makers who supply the $60,000 worth of white paper we use during the year; the renewed every year, and sundry other persons interested in supplying us what we need. There is the large force of advertisers that have contributed this year over $100,000 to our business, and the ever-increasing host of subscribers or buyers, who now number. for both editions, over 60,000 people. All these make the newspaper of today the centre of wide-spreading and almost countless activities. If we could find a room as big as our inclinations, we would have all these friends, known and unknown, with us today. As it is, we must be content to meet only those who are actually engaged in making THE CONSTITUTION, and in holding in grateful remembrance the thousands scattered all over the south, who are working to extend the influence and usefulness of THE CONSTITUTION, and those who, by their patronage, make it possible to maintain and im-

Legislative Lunatics.

The debate in the French chamber of deputies when Brisson carried through his Tonquin credit struck the Parisians as being very dramatic and very fine. In point of fact, it was so childish and so ludicrous that a summary will be regarded by English and American readers as an exaggerated bur-

A French reporter, who was present, tells us that when M. Clemenceau was howled down "he stood on the tribune apparently calm, but with flashing eyes, and with the blue veins on his ungloved right hand standing out like whip-cords." We are assured that "his stolidity partially calmed the deputies," and he found a chance to speak. He fervidly denounced the government for sacrificing French honor, when M. Spuller rushed up the aisle, yelling: "Honor? No! that is a vain word for the French nation." Clemenceau fiercely retorted: "If your honor is wounded, it has felt a sting before." This was rough on poor Spuller, but M. Clemenceau proceeded to grin at him like a possum, finally exploding in his face the contemptnous monosyllable, "Pah!"

Of course Spuller was effectually squelched under this treatment, and the deputies looked on in speechless awe. But Clemenceau was not through. He asked if he should read the dispatch in which Ferry implored Bismarck's aid. Loud cries arose from all. parts of the house, but the speaker, looking squarely at Ferry, said: "No, I will not inflict this shame upon France.'

The local chronicler informs us that at this stinging insult M. Ferry became rabid. He had promised Premier Brisson that nothing would force him to speak during the Tonquin debate, but he had not foreseen such a baiting as Clemenceau had given him. Ferry was standing in the center aisle. He made a rush for the tribune, shouting incoherently and obviously bent on personal violence Four or five friends grabbed his arms and coat-tails. He still struggled to get to the front, but he was physically helpless. He stood in the aisle glaring at Clemenceau and shouting challenges which were unintelligi ble in the surrounding confusion. He was like Victor Hugo's "Man Who Laughs." The scene would have been farcical if it had not been for the terrible intensity of the chief actors. M. Ferry's attitude was the very irony of defiance. Clemenceau laughed. It was a hideous laugh, which shocked every

cept your challenge."

While the deputies held Ferry down in his seat Clemenceau read the objectionable dispatch. The chamber became a pandemonium. Ferry was hustled out by his friends. The deputies stood up howling, hissing and shaking their fists. Spuller "sat as if glued to his seat. His face was bloodless, and his eyes bulged out with terror. Now, all this terrific, and yet laughable rumpus, was over a vote of credit for the winding up of the Tonquin matter. It would be impossible to find a parallel scene in any of the other parliamentary assemblies of the world. But just such incidents occur almost every day in the French chamber of depu

Sun-Myths and Negro Stories.

Our esteemed contemporary, the St. Louis Republican, is inclined to deal with Professor Max Muller's sun-myth theories in a spirit of levity. This is very bad to begin with, but the Republican makes bad matter worse by announcing that an "industrious Georgia journalist" ground the negro stories of Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox "out of his own head." This statement is called out by the fact that Professor Muller in attempting to establish the sun-myth theory, alludes in passing to the negro legends that have been gathered together in the Uncle Remus vol-ames, in order to support his belief. The truth is that there is no legend, no tradition, no scrap of folk-lore too unpromising to be classed as a sun-myth by the scientists who make a specialty of this particular line of investigation; but when the St. Louis Republican avers that the negro legends in which the rabbit and the fox play a part are the inventions of a Georgian journalist, it makes a mistake too serious to go uncorrected. The legends in the Uncle Remus volumes have been arranged and edited, and fragments have been fitted together, but the greatest care has been taken to put in print only such as can be verified. In other words, the legends from first to ast are genuine negro stories, and in not one of them did the aforesaid Georgian journalist exercise his inventive faculties. It was not necessary. The material at hand seemed to be inexhaustible, and it is a fact that there still exists among the negroes of the south today, a great body of folk-lore, stories and legends that has not been touched on.

Some of the most interesting of these stories do not deal with the rabbit and the fox at all, but with animals that have taken the shape of human beings, or with human beings that have taken the shape of animals. Whether these stories or the purely animal stories possess a scientific interest is not worth considering here, but they are a part, and a very important part, of the myth-literature of the world.

The North American Indians-especially the Creeks and the Cherokees-have a great many of the negro legends, and these legends, as told by the Indians, are as characteristic of the red men as they are of the ne groes. We are not sure that the sun-myth disease prevails to any great extent in this country outside of Philadelphia, but it is a theory of some of the authorities of the gathered their legends—the Tar-Baby story, for instance-from the Indians. Such a theory is not only ridiculous but inconceivable; for investigation shows that the rabbit -or the hare-plays a prominent part in the primitive oral literature of people who could never have been brought in contact with each other.

But if there was any borrowing between the Indians and the negroes, the Indians have been the borrowers. Thus, the late Profes sor Hartt discovered among the Tupi Indians on the Amazons, a body of legends almost precisely similar to that current among the negroes of the south. The professor was long of the opinion that the animal myths had their origin in the Amazon region, but subsequent investigation has shown that these myths were imported from Africa with the slaves. The sun-myth is a nuisance—a nightmare -a disease of the mind-but the negro legends to which the esteemed Republican alludes are current today in the south, and are told by the Kaffirs and the Hottentots.

Silver in Congress.

The Washington Post has polled the nouse of representatives on the silver question, and finds a majority of 65 against suspension. Thirty-nine democrats and 91 republicans, in all 130, favor suspension of the coinage of the silver dollar, while 143 democrats and 52 republicans, in all 195, are against suspension. As a rule the members rom the west and south are practically a unit for coinage, and the east and middle states are as solidly arrayed against a continuance of the coinage.

Our Washington contemporary admits here may be a few errors in its estimate, but t claims the errors will balance each other, and that its footings represent the standing of the members on the question of unlimited suspension. The question is one of great importance, and the house contains so many new members, it is of interest to know how it will stand. The recommendations of the resident and secretary of the treasury have not apparently changed a vote on the democratic side; for only 39 democrats were found who declared themselves in favor of suspension. Twelve of this number hail from New York, six from Pennsylvania, five from Maryland, three from New Jersey, and two from Connecticut-leaving only eleven from all the other states. In the eleven are two votes from Georgia-Messrs. Barnes and Norwood. If the position of the two Georgia members is correctly reported, they will stand quite alone; for of all the democrats from the cotton states only one other-Mr. Dargan, of South Carolina-is in favor of

A canvas of the senate shows a considerable majority in that body on the side of silver. Out of 34 democratic senators 26 are opposed to legislation on the subject; and there are 19 republican senators friendly to the silver coinage. All the states west of the Mississippi and all the southern states, except South Carolina, are solid in this respect. Of republicans Miller and Stanford of California, Dolph and Mitchell of Oregon Teller and Bowan of Colorado, Jones of Neva, Ingalls and Plumb of Kansas, Van Wyck and Manderson of Nebraska, Sabin of Minnesota, Cullom of Illinois, Allison and Wilson of Iowa, Sawyer of Wisconsin, Blair of friend of the fallen premier who heard it. The Dead of the Year. The death-roll of 1885 is a very long one, and it contains many distinguished names in nearly every walk of life. France mourns the loss of Victor Hugo; England has lost Richard Monckton Milnes, the poet and essayist; in this country, Susan Warner, author of "Wide, Wide World," and Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson; T. S. Arthur, Richard Grant White and Josh Billings, are among the dead.

Vice-President Hendricks, Robert Toombs Emory A. Storrs, the brilliant lawyer; ex-Secretary Frelinghuysen, ex-Senators Gwin, Sharon and Fenton, passed away during the year. Ot soldiers the world has lost Ulysses S. Grant, George B. McClellan: General Gordon, the hero of the ill-fated Soudan campaign; Marshal Serrano, and the Mahdi.

The musical world has lost Franz Abt, the ong writer; Dr. Leopold Damrosch; Arthur Bart, the solo cornet player, and Henry C. Oliver, who wrote more than a genera-

In St. Louis the young ladies- are beginning o go to balls with chaperones for escorts This movement did not originate with the ladies but with the men. The gentlemen of St Louis are not willing to spend an evening at a ball. They are booked for several places of amusement in a night, and cannot mit to the burden of a pretty girl. Under the chaperone system it is both easy and economical for the men to accept invitations everywhere. The main cause of this revolution in St. Louis society is the recent discovery that it was not entirely proper for a lady in ball toilet to drive alone with a gentleman in a close carriage during the small hours of the night.

HENRY CLAY, of Philadelphia, has invented a system of electric pneumatic transit which may revolutionize mail carriage and the telephone business. The scheme is one of vast proportions and elaborate detail, and is founded on a new plan of transmission by pneumatic tubes controlled and governed by electrical appliances. Mr. Clay last year obtained letter patent on the invention in Europe and in this country, and is now taking steps, in connec tion with George W. Bratton, toward organizing a stock company to cover the United States, and several companies in Europe. The tubes are to be laid under ground. They will be made of brass, and through them will be transmitted metalic carriers or receptacles adapted to the need of the business desired. At convenient points will be placed machines for introducing the compressed air that moves the metalic carriers, and also the electric current, which is a valuable adjunct of the pneumati system of Mr. Clay. lines prior to the 15th of December when the final rule went into effect. In one of these the Louisville and Nashville is interested. It seems that some time previous to the 15th, and before the agreement to maintain rates went into effect Mr. Atmore, general passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville, entered into a contract with a planter in Texas to furnish him with a lot of labor. The money to pay the fare on the labor was deposited in bank to Colonel Atmore's credit to pay the fare as soon as the negroes were shipped.

Owing to some delay in collecting the hands, the penal rule became of force before a sufficient number could be gotten together to fill the order. The hands are now at Charlotte awaiting transportation, and Colonel Atmore wants the committee to allow him to carry out his contract. If it refuses, Colonel Atmore will eitherplave to fill the contract and the Louisville and Nashville will have to foot the difference, or he can refuse to stand by the contract and fake his chances in a lawsuit. To haul them at the contract figure would be a violation of the penal rule and for each passenger carried below the fixed rate a fine of $50 will be imposed. An effort will be made before the committee today to give relief to the lines that have contracts daded prior to the 15th. Opinion differs as to what action the committee will take upon this matter. The chances are, however, that the relief asked for will be granted in some shape, as no harm can be done, as this trouble can never come up again.

A Pleasant Occasion. On last evening Father Kirsch gave to his choir return for their labors during the year, in the hape of a banquet. All of those who assisted at the midnight mass, including the orchestra, wer present and thoroughly enjoyed it. After the sub-stantials had been sufficiently appreciated a numasts were proposed. Father Kirsch sponded feelingly and with evident appreciation to the toast of "Our Pastor." Father McCarthy followed. Dr. Van Goidtsnoven was toasted as the member of longest standing, whose voice had been heard, even in the little old church, and had never yet been heard unappreciated. The doctor responded gracefully, and in turn gave Miss Grace McCann, proposing the "sweet mocking bird of Indiana," whose melody had made him wish that she could be kept to sustain the charm her sweet voice had created. Miss McCann responded and proposed the choir and Professor Schneider. After the health of Mrs. Dykeman, the leading soprana, had been proposed and heartily responded to, the company dispersed with the blessings of the "Bischoff." sponded feelingly and with evident apprecia

General Gossip and Editorial Short Stops

Pig iron! There is population and wealth in it. for the south. An advance of only one dollar a ton has lighted the southern furnaces and given Chat-tanooga and Birmingham a start that electrifies the most conservative inhabitants. What would an advance of five dollars do?

Southern iron has steadily gained ground in both New England and the west. The Cincinnati mercial recently spoke of the growth of the business in pig fron produced in Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia, and in the course of its article the fact was referred to that in the Johnston building in Cincinnati there are five offices representing six uthern companies, whose output is two hun thousand tons a year. The Boston Journal of Com-merce recently bore witness to the growing popularity of southern iron in the New England markets. And this foothold has been gained, it should be remembered, while freight rates have been high and the price of iron has been almost unprece edly low. If southern ironmakers can profitably sell iron in New England at $16 a ton, what willthe harvest be when iron is worth $20?

The three iron states of the south, Virginia, Alabama and Tennessee, produced one hundred and seventy-eight thousand tons of pig iron in 1880; in 1884 they produced four hundred and eighty-one housand, seven hundred and forty-four tons These figures are official and trustworthy. The increase of three hundred and three thousand, sever hundred and thirty-eight tons, which occurred in years of depression and falling prices, was nine thousand five hundred tons more than the net increase in the United States. The increase in the hree states met the heavy decrease in the other hirty-three states, and left a small balance on the right side.

The result of these dull years should convince the most skeptical that the seat of iron production wil oon be in the south. Good ores are brought from the Lake Superior region, but they are no match either in quality or quantity for the inexhaustible deposits of specular and brown hematite ores in Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, or even for the magnetic ores of Kentucky and Missouri. Almost adjoining these beds of ore are vast deposits of coal and limestone; and the great solid fact stands out that iron can be made at Birmingham or Chattanooga at $9 a ton, whereas even natural gas cannot reduce the cost of a ton of iron at Pittsburg to figures aces to Philadelphia or Boston. This is the secret of the steady and strong increase in the produc of iron in the south.

There is nothing surer in the world of trade than that the iron business in the south is to go on until the control of the iron trade of the country is located here. This means that the central south at east is to become a new south—a south of large towns, large railroad facilities, large factories, and arger ideas all around.

This change and growth will not, of course, be onfined to the two centers of pig iron production. It will be shared by all the adjacent towns that have enterprise enough to turn pig iron into stoves, agricultural implements, bridges, boot jacks, mouse traps, files and one thousand other articles of daily ise. Pig iron at the lowest rates is at our doors to day, and if we take this iron and transform it into the shapes that men desire, Atlanta will become the Philadelphia of the south just as Birmingham or Chattanooga becomes its Pittsburg But the new south will have other large interests. In making iron she will not cease to make cotton. She will make all the more. Cotton may not be king in all respects; hay is said to be; but cotton is still the leading article of export. The cotton exports for the past fliscal year amounted to $214,000,000, while the exports of breadstuffs footed up $160,000,000, and of provisions, $107,000,000. Oll is fourth in rank, and tobacco a poor fifth. Cotton will hold its place at the head of the list of ex-

In 1784 the south exported ten bales; the old south exported in the year before the civil war 3,126,867 bales; the new south exported in 1883 more than four and a half million bales. Since 1879 the south has built 11,000 miles of railroad. The production of corn has increased from 334,000,000 bushels in 1879 to 498,000,000 bushels in 1885; of oats from 42.000,000 bushels to 70.000,000. In 1880 the value of the crops in the south was $549,850,000; in 1885 their value had risen to $669,077,000-a gain of over wenty-one per cent. As a net result the assessed 1880 to $3,076,514,435 in 1885. No part of the country can show a corresponding gain in the five years named.

nanufactures. In 1880 we had 713,989 spindles and 15,222 looms; we now have 1,460,697 spindles and 27,004 looms. Instead of 180 cotton mills we have 353. In 1880 we had 40 cotton seed oil mills we now have 146, having a capital of $10,792,450. In 1880 we mined 6,048,571 tons of coal; last year the output of southern mines was 10,844,051 tons. And in every part of the south small industries are springing up. All branches of manufactures taken 924,744 in 1880 to $445,656,000 in 1885.

Is there not boundless encouragement in these figures? No other section of the country can match our percentages of growth, either in agricultural products or in manufactures. And lest some may refuse to accept the figures presented in the foregoing paragraphs, we beg leave to state that our author ity for all of them is Mr. Wm. F. Switzler, chief of

How IT WILL PAY. "How would you advise a man to plant so as to make his farm self-sustaining?"

"I would advise both diversification and intensification, if I may be allowed so to speak.

"The system of growing but one thing is bad policy in more particulars than one if any attention is paid to a preservation of the elements of fertility. Nature has placed the several elements, though in varied proportions, of course in all soils, and if one plant is grown to the exclusion of all others there soon gets to be a deficiency of the one most fed upon and that leaves a superabundance of others which destroy for, a time the order of nature, and either dwarfs, or in some way blights the growing plant. I therefore warmly urge the planting of everything needful to the sustenance of man and beas tapon the farm. Sed cotton does not make big hogs but a plenty of corn does and many of them. A plenty of both meat and corn satisfies the laborer, and satisfied labor causes everything to go off smoothly. It would be invidious in me to personate but I have in my mind's eye a large number of men who grow everything almost that you could mention upon their farms, really the cotten they grow is but supplementary. They have something of every kind grown upon the farm for sale, sometimes even poultry. I have in my eye now one man who, I am informed, has slaughtered seventy five hogs, all large and fat, and in addition, has corn, wheat, oats, bermuda hay, etc., etc., in equal profusion around him. What is the secret of all this. May it not be that this gentleman, as I am informed, is always at his post planning and caring for his sheep, hogs, laborers, and looking out in every way to increase the fertility of his soil. Whilst he buys liberally of guano, be does not, as is too frequently the case, rely entirely upon it, but builds immense heaps of compost with which to supplement his guano. Now just think of it. The proportion of time that is wasted upon the farm is often perfectly appalling. Could the merchant do this and prosper? Could the merchant do "How would you advise a man to plant so as make his farm self-sustaining?"

"Is stock raising on the increase"
"Pork hogs are 14 per cent short of last year, and

"Pork hogs are 14 per cent short of last year, and stock hogs are 12 per cent less, and sheep are likewise on the decline in numbers."

"What do you attribute this decrease to?"

"The decrease in hogs 1 attribute to the ravages of cholera, which existed in many portions of the state during the spring and summer, and the decrease in sheep to dogs, which is quite as fatal."

"To what use could the lands in the southern portions of the state, from which timber has been removed, be successfully applied?"

"I know of no use to which they could be better applied than to grazing purposes for cattle and sheep, and particularly for sheep. I think that by reason of the mildness of the climate large flocks of sheep could subsist there upon the tender grass at all reasons of the year."

"Is the production of commercial fertilizers on the increase in Georgia?"

"During the season of 1884 and 1885 the total amount of ammoniated fertilizers inspected for Georgia was 132,017 tons. Out of this amount Georgia manufactured 37,572 tons. For the same season there were 25,012 tons of acid phosphate or dissolved bones inspected out of which amount Georgia manufactured 6,67 tons, making the total amount of ammoniated fertilizers and acid phosphates manufactured in Georgia 43,820 tons.

"During the year 1885 the inspections were the neaviest ever made in this state, and there has been less complaint so far, notwithstanding the low price of cotton. I am of the opiation the acid phosphates have been used for composing as liberally as during any preceding year."

THE RICH COUNTRY

Through Which the M. and B. Railroad Passes—The Scenery.
HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., December 28.—[Spe ial Correspondence.]-Perhaps few of your readers are aware that there is now complete and running, a railroad from Memphis, Tenn., to Holly Springs, Miss., a distance of fortyfive miles, which the management say will be completed to Birmingham, Ala., in 1886.

At Holly Springs this road crosses the Illinois Central. I will only speak of the country between this place and Birmingham. Holly Springs is situated on an elevated sandy plateau many miles in extent, is in a productive section. Traveling eastward the country is undulating the upland growth being mainly hickory and oak, little or no pine, crust bottoms, rich sandy loam. The survey crosses the Tallahatchie river at New Albany, the county site of Union county. New Albany is also situated at the head of a large plateau known as the Potato Ridge. It is many miles in extent, a fine, productive, rich, dark-red soil—being the best wheat produring section of the south, except, perhaps, north Texas. A beautifully executed colored map of the Chickasaw cession made by Edward Fountain in 1836, now in my possession, shows the home of the Chickasaw King Tehautepec to have been six miles south of New Albany. Many prosperous farmers in this section. The McGhees and Whites, of Georgis, first settled in this section were among the wealthiest planters in the south in ante bellum times.

Passing this section the survey enters a hill region known as Buncombe, named by early pinneers for Buncombe and New Carelian. the upland growth being mainly hickory and region known as Buncombe, named by early pioneers for Buncombe county, North Carolina. This is quite a noted region, the tall hills having a growth indigenous to the rich, alluvial lands, in many places a heavy growth of cane being seen on the hills. The population is somewhat similar to some of the north Georgia mountain counties. Forest cavelrymen used, to say that the Research of the second countries of the second countries. cavalrymen used to say that the Buncombe girl would not entirely ignore the acquaintance of the soldier. At this distant day I do not know whether this is true or not. Passing through this section the survey crosses the large creeks, Yarnubba and Camp, they are over tweaty miles each in length, with valleys one to two miles broad. To give your readers some idea of their fertility this year 2600 nounds of seed of their fertility this year, 2,600 pounds of seed cotton and 80 bushels corn was made per acre. THE BEAUTIFUL TISHAMING VALLEY THE BEAUTIFUL TISHAMING VALLEY opens to view. The large creek which flows through it, of that name was given in honor of a great Chickasaw warrior and chief who lived near it. This valley is twenty-five miles long, several broad. Over a bale of cotton, 60 to 70 bushels corn were made per acres on it this year. The ditch banks have a tall growth of cane which, in the distance over the broad, smooth, well cultivated fields, looks like hedges specially grown for ornamentation.

We are row in Lee county, the richest, perhaps, in northeast Mississippi. The agricultural productions west of the Mobile and Ohio railroad, which runs through the center of the county from north to south are enormous. I saw it stated in the Tupelo Journal that twelve thousand head of cattle were shipped from it. saw it stated in the Tupelo Journal that twelve thousand head of cattle were shipped from it in one year. Some fine herds of Jerseys, Holstein and Devon cattle, grade Norman horses, and other improved stock. Most ot this county is in what is known as the northeastern prairie region. Same lands being extremely black and all underlaid by a strata of marl and sea shells.

At Saltillo the survey crosses the Mobile and Ohio railroad, which is an air line to Birming-

Ohio railroad, which is an air line to Birmingham, and is by far the most eligible and suitable place for a large town for many miles in either direction; it being situated in a dry sandy section, splendidly watered by springs and wells of the finest freestone water, and is free from causes of malaria. Passing out of this county we enter Itewamba county. Usually a poor section though some very rich lands, especially the seed brakes—which are narrow and long marshes between the pine covered hills, when drained have made over one hundred bushels of corn per acre. Ohio railroad, which is an air line to Birming

At Fulton, the county site, the survey crosses At Futton, the county site, the survey crosses the Tombigbee river. Twenty miles reaches the Alabama line. The first coal strata examined near Bull Mountain creek was eight feet thick. This creek is near the Mississippi and Alabama line. From thence to Birmingham the survey is through the heart of the great Alabama coal and iron fields. We can scarcely Alabama coal and iron fields. We can scarcely • neeive what this road will do for Memphis

Memphis.

It is proper I should mention that it speaking of the section traversed by this road and the crops grown, that no fertilizers were used—commercial fertilizers being unknown, What will be the effect of this road on Atlanta and her commerce? With the Georgia Pacific it places you over 100 miles nearer the Mississippi river and the great west. The Georgia Central system, by building a road fifty miles from Goodwater to Birmingham, will get the benefit of this great connection. Then twenty-five or thirty miles extension of the East and West narrow gauge system will make a connection Memphis.

narrow gauge system will make a connection at Birmingham.

When I state that all of that portion of When I state that all of that portion of Mississippi spoken of is a healthy and populous region, the importance of this road to Atlanta will be seen. THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION has a good circulation in this section of Mississippi which may be but the pioneer of other Atlanta enterprises that may neer of other Atlanta enterprises that may reach it from Holly Springs to same distance in Alabama. There is no stone, deep cuts or heavy grades, no expensive bridges. Nature seems most favorable for a line of railroad on that route, and the survey never varies for from the path used from the days of Desot, up to the time General Forrest, when he used to go from this section of Mississippi to the great river.

THE exercises at Professor C. Theodores's music rooms, 9634 Whitehall street, took place on Christmas morning, the 25th of December. His rooms were filled with a number of his pupils, large rooms were filled with a number of his pupils, large and small, every one of whom performed on the piano. Their execution was very precise and the expression of great taste and feeling, leaving no doubt but that the performers were drilled to perfection and understood what they were about, bearing witness of the professor's method in teaching music being effectual. Two first rewards for good execution and general knowledge in music were carried off by Miss Ross Schindler and Miss Amelia Weinmeister. Second rewards were also given to Miss Nattie Elsas, two Miss Bells, Brennes and Perrines, and one Miss Rosenfeld and Miss Roberts. The professor felt very happy, and a good feeling of harmony could be observed between the master and his pupils, who presented him with various gifts.

During the last five years he has only been seen as Dunstan Kirke, and although he made the character famous, still he seems to be more favorably and kindly remembered as Luke Fielding in the Willow Copse. It is a more agreeable character than that of the austere and flinty-hearted Dunstan, yet full enough of that high regard for honesty which characterized the old-time Englishman. To say his acting was good, would fall short of expressing the truth. Greatness is perhaps the most appropriate word in this connection. His support was entirely satisfactory.

KILLED BY AN ENGINE.

JAMES TURNER GROUND TO DEATH LAST NIGHT.

A Nephew of United States Senator Brown Killed by a Freight Engine in the Western and Atlantia Yards-His Body Terribly MutilatedA Death No One Can Explain.

James Turner, a young white man, well known among railroad men in Atlanta, was killed by an engine in the Western and Atlantic yard last night.

Turner was a nephew of United States Senator Joseph E. Brown.

Last night at nine o'clock and fifteen minates, freight train No. 16 reached Atlanta from Chattanooga. When the train rolled into the Western and Atlantic road yards Engineer Bass disposed of the train on the side tracks and then uncoupling his engine, started to the round house with it. It was then nearly ten o'clock. Engineer Bass propelled

THE ENGINE UP THE MAIN TRACK until he reached a switch near the Broad street bridge. This switch was changed by his fire-man and then the engineer gave his engine steam and began moving backward towards the steam and began moving backward towards the round house. Near the eastern end of the depot, about half way between Forsyth street and the depot is another switch. From this switch one track leads into the round house while the other pushes off toward the old Monroe track. As the engine in moving backward approached this track the engineer looked ahead and, seeing that the switch was set to suit him moved or that the switch was set to suit him, moved on, His engine was moving slowly. The engineer was tired and the fireman equally worn out with his day's work. Both were

and the rest that awaited them there, and all unmindful of the life they were killing and the human body they were then grinding to powder, they pushed the engine past the depot on into the roundhouse.

When the engine entered the roundhouse, Engineer Bass drove her upon the turn table, and then the fireman got down to assist in turning it around, but as he descended, he made addiscovery which chilled the blood in his veins. In leaving the engine the fireman walked toward the ing the engine the fireman walked toward the front, and in passing the front trucks he saw something resembling a shoe protruding from between the wheels. The fireman had

A LANTERN IN HIS HANDS and holding it so that the light would fall on what he had seen he detected a yarn sock, a breeches leg and then a shoe. Stooping down and peeping under the engine he discovered blood and then flesh. The discovery was horten the stooping the rifying. The fireman could hardly realize the picture he saw but in a few seconds he recovered his senses and straightening said;

"My God! here's a mans leg between the wheels?"

This exclamation brought a half dozen men about him in an instant. Each man had a lantern, and by the combined light, a leg, from the knee down, including the foot, could be plainly seen. In silence the men looked upon the token of death for a second and then Engineer Bass said sadly.

gineer Bass said sadly:
"Yes, we have killed some one."
But where?

THE BODY FOUND.

That was the question that agitated the minds of those about. It might have been at any point on the road or it might have been in the yard. The latter appeared the most feasible, and with lanterns in hand a half dozen men started back over the track on a search. Before going fifty yards they found a mau's hat, bloody and dirty, and a little further on a hand. Then within a few feet they found the body. It was twisted and doubled up in such a shape that it could hardly be recognized as a man. Some one straightened it out, and by the light of the lanterns the face was recognized as THE BODY FOUND.

who once worked on the road. The alarm was given and in a few minutes Captain Crim and Patrolman Hamilton responded. The captain secured a box car door and upon it placed the body. He then had it removed to the depot and notified Blyle, the undertaker. Then the leg was taken from the engine and carried to the body and laid beside it. The track was traversed to the depot and all along it were found evidences of the horrible death the unfortunate man had died. Here could be seen a spot of blood. THE FACE OF JAMES TURNER, a spot of blood. Here and here a bunch of hair. Near the eastern end of the depot, and near the last switch men-tioned, was found a piece of bone. Here, too, the cinders on the track were badly torn up, as though something had rolled or torn up, as though something had rolled or rather been pushed over them.

The engineer does not know just where he struck the unlucky man, but it is thought that the engine hit him near the switch, or about where the piece of bone was found. In fact the engineer or fireman knew nothing of having run over the man, until the leg was found and the investigation made. It was the rear end of

THE TENDER WHICH HIT TURNER THE TENDER WHICH HIT TURNER and knocked him down. The tender and engine then rolled upon and pushed him over and over along the track for fully fifty yards before passing over him. The body was mutilated in a most horrible manner. Both legs were ground off and both arms terribly lacerated. The face was scratched and bruised.

James Turner was about thirty-four years of the had been working for the Western.

James Turner was about thirty-four years of sige. He had been working for the Western and Atlanta road up to a few months ago when he quit. Recently he has been working at Hunnicutt & Belligrath's. It is not known how he happened to lose his life. A short while before the engine crushed him he was seen walking down Forsyth street near the railroad. It is presumed that he was trained to the ed that he was trying to cross the track when the engine hit him. He was a married man and leaves a wife. He has two brothers who are conductors on the Western and Atlantic road. His father and father-in-law were sent for soon after the killing.

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH.

Renting of the Pews at This Church Last Night.

Renting of the Pews at This Church Last Night.

The annual renting of pews took place at the second Baptist church last night.

The old mode of auctioning off the pews has been abandoned and the church has adopted the phin of assessing the pews at different prices and allowing the members to take their choice. The prices of pews vary according to location, the middle or center ones bringing the highest prices. Senator J. E. Brown retained the same pews as he used last year, 28 and 30, center, paying for them $125 each. Mayor George Hillyer takes 27, just across the aisle from Senator Brown and pays $125. Mr. A. D. Adair selected No. 24, center, and paid $125. No. 25 was taken by Mr. J. H. James and for it he paid $125. Governor H. D. McDaniel rented No. 19 for $125; Mr. G. B. The question at issue this time was whether or not Judge Clarke would compel Ordinary Calboun to hear a contest which was tendered after he had, declared the result and which he

There was a slim attendance. When the clock struck nine the janitor was dusting out clock struck nine the janitor was dusting out the court room and was very much surprised when the judge entered and took his seat on the bench. He was not expecting court and had not turned on the heat. The court room was chilly and as the lawyers came in they wisely kept their overcoats on. Colonel Mynatt, Mr. Tom Glenn, Mr. Julius Brown, Judge Clarke, two newspaper reporters and Mr. William Laird made up the entire crowd. Later Colonel Westmoreland and Judge Hammond dropped in and Mr. A. C. King, Colonel Albert Cox and Judge Tompkins were soon on hand. Gradually a few other citizens came in but the crowd was in strong contrast to that which hung eagerly on what was spoken in the federal court.

Col. Westmoreland for the prohibitionists, took the position that the case could not be heard the position that the case could not be heard at the time set, as the statute required ten days from the granting of the order to the time of the trial, and that time had not expired.

Mr. Julius Brown answered: "That is not ground for dismissal."

The counsellors for the liquor men stated they had asked for the case to be heard in March, and that the court had set the date at the charter time. Judge Clarke answered—Yes, it was my own conduct. I did it to expedite matters.

Judge Hammond read the statute which provides that a rule nisi shall be returnable not less than ten nor more than thirty days from the time it is issued. Colonel Mynatt stated that there would be an issue of fact, and the case would have to

A Talk With Dr. J. H. Watkins, the Original

Grower of This Corn in America. THE CONSTITUTION had a call from Dr. J. H. Watkins, of Palmetto, original grower in this country of Kaffir corn, a plant of the sorghum amily that for forage and bread is unsurpassed The experiment made with Kaffir corn has been watched with great interest all over the ountry, and every pound of seed that Dr. Watkins could spare has been taken eagerly. Watkins could spare has been taken eagerly. The results of the experiment have been better than was expected, and the success of Kaffir corn seems to be established. Dr. Watkins says: "I have tried to make my experiments conscientiously and to accept no conclusion until it was proved. I am satisfied that Kaffir corn is for many reasons the coming plant for the farmers of this section. The demand for seed has been so great that I have determined to plant next year, at least have determined to plant next year, at least 30 acres, so that I may be able to supply at least a part of those who want it. I have sold enough this season to establish the corn in

"What are the advantages of Kaffir corn?" "What are the advantages of Anthr corn?"
."In the first place it will grow on thin land that would not support any other useful plant. Dr. Jackson, of Carroll county, insists that it will grow anywhere that sedge, or old-field pine will take hold. I know of my own experience that it is well adapted to thin land. In the next place it ripeus early and can be eathered and put away before there is any In the next place it ripensearly and can be gathered and put away before there is any danger of drouth. It is a low plant, and canbe easily handled. It will give more forage than any other plant grown on grounds of equal richness. Besides the forage, it produces unquestionably the best grain of any of the sorghum plants, surpassing the mile maize, the seed being almost twice as large, and as many to the head. The seed make excellent feed for stock, fattens poultry quickly, and will be eaten by anything poultry quickly, and will be caten by anything on the farm. At the department of agricult-ure, we threshed out one head of Kaffir corn seed, and received three ounces of clean seed seed, and received three ounces of clean seed from the one head. If planted early enough Kaffir corn will produce one full crop of forage, which may be cut when the plant is in bloom, and it will then produce by fall another full crop of forage and ripe grain.

"The grain is, as I have said before, unsurpassed is food for stock. It is equally fine for passed as food for stock. It is equally fine for bread. I have tried it in biscuit, batter cakes and pound cake, and I have found it equal in flavor to the best flour. It has the odor of the best flour. heat, in the bulk, and the flavor of wheat when ground. I have brought with me a pound-cake made of this, which I leave with you. I think you will find it as nice as any you ever tasted. I don't know that any of the sorghum plants will ever surpass wheat and Indian corn as a bread crop, but I am certain if any ever does it will be the Kaffir corn. In any event it will be a very favorable adjunct to the grain and wheat crop and, being grown easier than either and with more certainty, will be less subject to accident or failure. A farmer can put in a patch of this corn on ground that is too poor to grow anything else and he will find it very valuable towards the end of the season, if he is unlucky with his corn or wheat crops. It is easy to cultivate. Does not require rich land, although it produces best results on rich land, and it seems to me that every farmer ought to put in a few acres of this new comer that certainly promises more for agriculture than any plant that has been introduced in the than any plant that has been introduced in the last twenty years. You will do me a favor to say that through The Constitution that all my surphis seed have been sold and I have no more to dispose of. Next year I hope to be able to come near supplying the demand."

"THE SOCIAL THUG."

Mr. Sam W. Small to Deliver His Lecture on Thursday Evening.

Sam W. Small, the well-known Atlantian and ex-journalist, who has recently become the popular co-laborer with Rev. Sam Jones in the evangelistic field, will lecture at DeGive's opera house on Thursday evening of this week.
Yesterday afternoonle was presented with the following request, signed by Mr. W. A.
Hemphill, Judge W. R. Haumond, Rev. W. F.
Glenn, Rev. J. W. Lee, Josiah Carter, P. J.
Moran and others

Glenn, Rev. J. W. Lee, Josiah Carter, P. J. Moran and others.

"We, your fellow citizens, respectfully request that you favor your Atlanta friends with the lecture that you delivered recently in 8t. Joseph, Mo. We are sure you would find it appreciated as we have no doubt it would deserve to be."

This request, coupled with numerous personal requests, determined Mr. Small to deliver his lecture and, as he leaves Saturday for his next field of labor in Cincinnati, Thursday evening was chosen as the best available time for the event.

THE SUBJECT OF THE LECTURE is "The Social Thug" and the purpose is to commend the institution and usages of good commend the institution and usages of good society and to consider the characters and customs that degrade society and make it so often a reproach, and the object of merited criticism and denunciation. The argument is to prove that Christianity and "society" are not enemies naturally and necessarily, but that they may be brought into a beautiful and mutually helpful harmony. The discussion of the usurping autocrats and the subservient parasites of modern society is sharp, caustic and mingled with abundant humor. The high encomiums passed upon the lecture by the St. Joseph press should be a sufficient introduction of it here where Mr. Small is so popular as an entertaining and eloquent speaker.
